DETAILED ACTION

Election/Restrictions

1. Restriction to one of the following inventions is required under 35 U.S.C. 121:
  - I. Claims 1-60, drawn to methods of determining steroid responsiveness using nucleic acids, classified in class 435, subclass 6.
  - II. Claims 61 and 62, drawn to nucleic acid kits, classified in class 536, subclass 23.1.

The inventions are distinct, each from the other because of the following reasons:

2. Inventions in Group II and in Group I are related as product and process of use.

The inventions can be shown to be distinct if either or both of the following can be shown: (1) the process for using the product as claimed can be practiced with another materially different product or (2) the product as claimed can be used in a materially different process of using that product (MPEP § 806.05(h)). In the instant case, the nucleic acid primers can be used in the responsiveness method of Group I, in allelic analysis methods, in nucleic acid amplification methods, in nucleic acid purification methods, in methods of cloning, or in methods of antisense therapy.

3. Because these inventions are distinct for the reasons given above and have acquired a separate status in the art as shown by their different classification, restriction for examination purposes as indicated is proper. Also, because these inventions are distinct for the reasons given above and have acquired a separate status in the art because of their recognized divergent subject matter, restriction for examination purposes as indicated is proper.

4. This application contains claims directed to the following patentably distinct species of the claimed invention:

There are several different species elections which are required.

i. The first set of distinct species is drawn to the inflammatory mediators. For search and initial examination purposes, Applicant is required to elect a specific inflammatory mediator such as Interleukin 1alpha, TNF or VIP, for example from the many listed.

ii. The second set of distinct species is drawn to the genes being measured. For search and initial examination purposes, Applicant is required to elect a specific gene such as SAA1 or CRP, for example from the many listed.

iii. The third set of distinct species is drawn to the different diseases. For search and initial examination purposes, Applicant is required to elect a specific disease such as lymphoma, Crohn's disease, or iritis, for example, from the many listed.

iv. The fourth set of distinct species is drawn to the different steroids. For search and initial examination purposes, Applicant is required to elect a specific steroid such as mitotane, ketoconazole or trilostane, for example from the many listed.

Applicant is required under 35 U.S.C. 121 to elect a single disclosed species for prosecution on the merits to which the claims shall be restricted if no generic claim is finally held to be allowable. Currently, claims 1-12 are generic.

Applicant is advised that a reply to this requirement must include an identification of the species that is elected consonant with this requirement, and a listing of all claims readable thereon, including any claims subsequently added. An argument that a claim is allowable or that all claims are generic is considered nonresponsive unless accompanied by an election.

Upon the allowance of a generic claim, applicant will be entitled to consideration of claims to additional species which are written in dependent form or otherwise include all the limitations of an allowed generic claim as provided by 37 CFR 1.141. If claims are added after the election, applicant must indicate which are readable upon the elected species. MPEP § 809.02(a).

Should applicant traverse on the ground that the species are not patentably distinct, applicant should submit evidence or identify such evidence now of record showing the species to be obvious variants or clearly admit on the record that this is the case. In either instance, if the examiner finds one of the inventions unpatentable over the prior art, the evidence or admission may be used in a rejection under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) of the other invention.

5. A telephone call was made to Diana Steel on June 16, 2003 to request an oral election to the above restriction requirement, but did not result in an election being made.

Applicant is advised that the reply to this requirement to be complete must include an election of the invention to be examined even though the requirement be traversed (37 CFR 1.143).

6. Applicant is reminded that upon the cancellation of claims to a non-elected invention, the inventorship must be amended in compliance with 37 CFR 1.48(b) if one or more of the currently named inventors is no longer an inventor of at least one claim remaining in the application. Any amendment of inventorship must be accompanied by a request under 37 CFR 1.48(b) and by the fee required under 37 CFR 1.17(i).
